

BOOTLEGGERS PUT TO FLIGHT

By Confessions Made to Local Prosecutors. General Clean-up Inaugurated.

While traveling men have told us that the lid is on tighter in Mt. Sterling than any other city its size in the State, local officers have been suspecting that very quietly a small quantity of liquor was being disposed of and after several probable purchasers were interrogated at a Court of Inquiry, evidence sufficient to warrant the arrest of John Devine, for procuring whiskey in local option territory was obtained and upon his trial in the County Court, it was agreed between his counsel and the County Attorney that Devine should make a full breast of all he knew, which he did in open court, naming under oath, five men from whom he had bought whiskey since the local option law went into effect here. Warrants were promptly sworn out, but, but as such news travels fast, three of the parties named by Devine promptly took to flight and have not been apprehended. Two other young men, who have been acting as runners, in the hope of getting a lighter sentence, have confessed to County Attorney Senff and City Attorney Hamilton and developments this week are expected to disclose the men higher up. Devine was fined $80 and given 20 days in the county jail.

PNEUMONIA PROVES FATAL

Mrs. Joseph H. Kemper, Formerly of This City, Dies at Her Home in Louisville.

Relatives and friends were grieved to learn that on Friday Mrs. Joseph H. Kemper had died at her home in Louisville after a short illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Kemper, before her marriage, was Miss Elizabeth Cox and was born and up until the time of her marriage lived in this city. She was about thirty-five years of age. Besides her husband she is survived by one son and daughter, a sister, Miss Jennie Cox, of Texas, and a large circle of relatives in this city and county.

For the Sabbath of earth she now enjoys the never ending Sabbath of heaven. She waits your coming and watches near the gate. And remember that morning is not far off when the love of Christ shall bid thee enter in and share with her unending, unalloyed joy.

Her sweet face made sunshine in a shady place. If strangers felt the charm of her rare courtesy and joyous, sunny temperament, how much more do the members of her own household upon whom she lavished all the sweet earnestness and careful culture of her mind and nature. Strong and potent was the influence of this loving heart which gave of its gifts so generously. The spirit of her love was not weakness but strength. Gently, almost unconsciously, it coerced those coming in contact with it, to strive for it not to attain the realization of her high ideal.

Her life was gentle, but like the still waters it was deep. In her heart of hearts she carried those she loved, and her hand was never weary, her step never failed in ministering unto, caring for, waiting upon those who were in any way dependent upon her.

Funeral services were held in this city Sunday afternoon at the residence of Mr. John L. McCormick, conducted by Rev. Clyde Darsie, of the Christian church, with burial in Machpelah cemetery.

The Advocate tenders sympathy to the bereaved family.

"When Dreams Come True."

Young Phillip Bartholomae, the author of "When Dreams Come True," to be presented at The Tabb Theatre, Dec. 6th, appears to possess a talent for stage matters as diversified as that which distinguishes the late Clyde Fitch. Mr. Bartholomae wrote the book and lyrics of his new play, personally selected every item of the furnishings, devised the lighting effect in the last act, which is made possible by broad wall panels of silk, where canvas is ordinarily employed; individually picked out all the fabrics from which the costumes are constructed, made the rough drawings for each of the four scenes, selected every member of the cast from the principal players down to the humblest chorus man, and even submitted designs for the display advertisements that adorn the billboards.
